ISOLATED PEOPLE IN IRELAND: Community network supports isolated people in Ireland. Telephone befriending groups support those who cannot travel for many reasons – maybe they have difficulties associated with older age, are frail, disabled, geographically remote, suffer from an emotional or physical ailment or care for others. Sue Robinson from Community Network Ireland will be visiting the Family Resource Centre, Kilrush on Monday 26 January at 2.30pm. She will be telling us about where the schemes are employed successfully, how they run and giving feedback from people who are taking part in the schemes. If you are someone who would like to be part of a telephone group or know someone who might, why not come along and hear how other people in Ireland and in the UK have enjoyed the benefits, simply by using their telephone. Contact Debbie Programme 065 9052173 for more information.
