50th International Eucharistic Congress Reveals Headliners and Hosts at Opening and Closing Ceremonies

A number of world class Irish acts and well known hosts are set to perform at the 50th International Eucharistic Congress (IEC2012) which will be hosted in Dublin from 10 – 17 June.

Hugely popular trio The Three Tenors will perform at the opening ceremony and will feature alongside the Palestrina Choir, Our Lady of Victories Choir, and The Maynooth Gospel Choir among many more.

International stars The Priests, Fuaimlaoi, award winning soprano Celine Byrne, and world renowned composer Fr. Liam Lawton are among the acts that will feature alongside the RTE Concert Orchestra performing at the closing ceremony taking place at Croke Park.

Speaking ahead of their performance at 'Statio Orbis' the closing ceremony, Father Eugene O'Hagan of The Priests said: "Singing at the closing Mass will be a thrilling but daunting experience. The IEC comes at a critical time in peoples' lives in Ireland. The IEC will strengthen our faith, our vision and our commitment to make real what we believe is at the heart of the Eucharist. We will be with so many pilgrims and it will be a unique experience for us and we'll be that little bit more nervous and anxious to give of our very best."

Celine Byrne who has performed with the world's best orchestras and conductors in venues as prestigious as Covent Garden and Carnegie Hall said: "My faith means a lot to me and to be invited to participate in the International Eucharist Congress is both an honour and a blessing for which I am grateful."

The Opening Ceremony on June 10 will be hosted on the arena stage by RTE newscaster Bryan Dobson along with TG4 presenter Róisín Ni Thomain. Events commence at 1pm and continue until 4.45pm. This will be broadcast live on RTE.

The closing ceremony, Statio Orbis, in Croke Park on 17 June will be hosted by Liveline presenter Joe Duffy and newscaster Eileen Dunne. Events commence at 1pm and run until 5.15. This event will also be broadcast live on RTE.

During the week a selection of presenters will take to the arena stage, including broadcaster Joe O'Shea, TV3 newscaster Siobhan Bastible, Spirit Radio presenter Rónán Johnstone, broadcaster Brenda Power and TV3 presenter Paul Connolly.

Throughout the week music will be heard from Ireland's top intercultural choral group Discovery Gospel Choir, who have performed before for the Rev Dr Jesse Jackson, and the Dalai Lama.
