WHY IS THE IRISH CHURCH INTRODUCING THIS NEW MISSAL NOW?

The Irish Church is not alone in introducing a new edition of the Roman Missal at this time. The new edition of the Roman Missal is the English translation of the Latin Missal that was issued by Pope John Paul II in 2002. Since 2002 the Church across the world in its many languages has engaged in the work of translating this Latin text through study, reflection and consultation. This work in English speaking countries is now complete. In Ireland, as in other English speaking countries, the New Missal will come into use during Autumn 2011.

IS WHAT WE HAVE BEEN PRAYING UP TO NOW WRONG?

The Missal that we have been using in Ireland since 1975 was approved for use by the Conferences of Bishops and by the Holy See. Over time and with use, some of its weaknesses have emerged. The revised translation is intended to address some of these weaknesses, particularly by seeking to strengthen scriptural imagery within the prayers and by elevating the language somewhat. The current translation has served a number of generations of the faithful well and remains the proper and valid form of our prayer together until such time as the new Missal is introduced.

AREN'T THERE MORE IMPORTANT THINGS WE COULD BE DOING AS A CHURCH?

The Church's mission in the world is one of loving service and sharing the Good News of Jesus Christ. This work is at the heart of the Church everyday and finds expression in a myriad of ways. In the celebration of the Mass we nurture and celebrate the faith that calls us to individually share in the mission of the Church. The words and actions of the Mass form the central act of the Christian Community. Together they express our faith - we pray as we believe. So our words and actions in the Mass matter deeply. They shape our faith and lead us beyond the Mass to live out this faith. The work of the Church rightly continues in all sorts of ways. Yet the importance of the Mass in the life of the Church demands that we give it time and attention and take great care in its words and actions.
